No building code, no money, Hancock supervisors are told

Hancock county must adopt a uniform building code or lose all chances of any future federal funding or flood insurance, county supervisors were told at a special Monday meeting in the court house.

A recent directive from Federal Insurance commissioner George Bernsten put the county on 60 days notice to adopt the building code or lose flood insurance eligibility completely.

Explaining the complexities of the situation was D. L. Anderson, Research and Development Center representative from the University of Southern Mississippi at Gulf Park, who adressed a crowd of citizens, members of two city councils and the supervisors.

"Whether or not you like it, or I like, you will have to adopt a (building) code or go out of flood insurance and funding altogether," Anderson said, adding that these were not his words. That edict came "straight from the flood insurance association people," he said.

New flood insurance legislation, effective March 1, set certain requirements for land use and control measures which all counties and municipalities will have to meet before residents can be eligible for private, public or federal funding or flood insurance, Anderson stated.

As an interim measure to answer the federal insurance commission's directive, and "to get you off the hook right now," Anderson suggested that the board immediately adopt an ordinance setting down certain code restrictions and control measures for flood-prone areas. It would be literally impossible to adopt a final code within 60 days, he admitted, but the interim measure would likely convince Washington, D. C. officials that the county was acting in good faith.

Regarding the building code, Anderson warned that it would be equally important to back up whatever system was adopted with a system of renewals and periodic inspections to guarantee the code's effectiveness.

"You wouldn't even have to hire a building inspector," he noted. The county could borrow one from either of the two cities, both of which adopted the Southern Building Code immediately after hurricane Camille.

A spate of contention erupted during the meeting between a Belle Isles subdivision resident, pressing for the code, and beat one supervisor Jerry Ladner, who has consistently fought adoption of one.

Ladner's efforts against the former county building code during his campaign for office two years ago was thought to be instrumental in the present board's abolishment of the code.

"I warned you two years ago this would happen," the resident threw at Ladner, "and now your chickens have come home to roost." Turning to the other board members, he pleaded for protection of property owners in unincorporated areas.

To a question from another member of the audience regarding flood insurance coverage now in effect for residential property, Anderson answered that "you're OK now but if the county doesn't adopt the code when your insurance comes up for renewal, you won't get it."

Supervisors were presented with resolutions and formal recommendations in support of a code by representatives of various civic and professional groups.

The Hancock county Planning Commission's recommendation rejected the prior adopted code as "too restrictive" but promised a finalized and more liberal code within the week.

E. J. Marengo, as spokesman for the General Insurance Agents of Hancock County, presented the board a resolution calling for implementation of the present Flood Program and recommended a flood plain map be obtained; that all new residential construction within the zone be elevated a minimum of 12 and a half feet above mean sea level; that the supervisors establish an office with staff to issue and supervise building permits.

Following the meeting, the board which was still in open business session read and adopted an interim ordinance establishing a building code for the county.

Not enough money to solve school system's problems

Architectural plans submitted to county school board members Tuesday recommended a $1,628,000 cost figure on proposed building programs within the county's school system, although architect Fred Wagner speaking privately said that a minimum of $2 million was actually needed to solve the county's problems.

The board, preparing to seek a major bond issue, received Wagner's plans and cost figures for expansion programs at Charles B. Murphy, Gulfview and Hancock North Central schools.

The proposals include the addition of four classrooms and two toilets to the existing building at C. B. Murphy School, the construction of a single large classroom building and additions to the present gymnasium at Gulfview School, and the construction of a new gymnasium and food service building at Hancock North Central.

Wagner said privately that while the board intends to use new classroom space at Gulfview School as a second high school for the county, he preferred not to call it that.

"Architecturally," Wagner said, "I can't justify calling it a high school." Wagner said that the limited space and funds proposed for the Gulfview school would necessitate a limited curriculum and force deletion of many of the standard high school functions.

Figures given by Wagner placed cost of the proposals at Gulfview at a total project cost of $681,000 including actual construction cost of $645,000, equipment cost at $21,000 and architectural fees of $16,000.

Wagner said that he understood the board's problems in working with a limited budget, and added that he believed they were choosing the route that would satisfy the greatest number of people.

The proposed plans for Gulfview include the construction of 11 new classrooms, two science rooms, a library and office space as well as the additions to the elementary gymnasium of dressing rooms, restrooms and a small concession stand.

However, Wagner said, there is no provision for the junior high teams or for dressing rooms for visiting teams.

Speaking of Hancock North Central School, Wagner said that there were presently some 1100 to 1200 students in a school that was only designed to accommodate 450. Parents and principals have complained in past board meetings of the inexcusable amount of time it presently takes to feed the growing body of students.

"Nothing has been done previously to update the food service capability," Wagner said.

A new food service building is one of two proposals that Wagner was asked to prepare for the board. The other includes a new gymnasium and physical education facilities for Hancock North Central.

"The board," Wagner said, "is actually trying to solve all of these problems with less money than it would actually take to solve any one alone."

There was no way, Wagner said, for the board to do everything that was needed for less than $2 million.

Wagner said that he felt the board could obtain certain state funds that were available for classroom construction in addition to what could be raised on a bond issue to supplement some of the construction cost.

In other business Tuesday the board voted to change school hours to begin classes 45 minutes earlier than presently effective April 1. The change will reflect the switch to Daylight Savings Time, according to E. E. Breland, assistant school superintendent.

The board also heard recommendations from Hancock North Central principal J. A. O'Neal that the board consider a longer school day for the 1974-75 school year and the dissolution of a separate study hall period.

O'Neal told board members that even an increase of 15 to 20 minutes a day would be effective. Presently, he said, state law required a minimum of six hours in the classroom.

"We are operating now where our whole day is only around seven hours," O'Neal said, "including our lunch hour, breaks, and so forth and we just actually need a longer day."

O'Neal also recommended that the board consider allowing the high school to drop its separate one hour period for study hall and extend regular class hours by an additional 15 minutes. This

Pass Council votes increase to deLaureal

The Pass Christian board of aldermen passed a motion Tuesday night to permit an $11,240 increase in contract with deLaureal Engineers.

Mayor Steve Saucier explained that the company had made a mistake in billing the city when requesting a letter of approval to begin smoke testing. The company had made a mistake, Saucier said, when it set the contract costs at $91,800, the amount listed as eligible costs by the Environmental Protection Agency grant. The board gave the mayor approval to rewrite the letter to deLaureal for contract approval to include actual costs of the project, or $103,040.

In other business, the board voted to give $1,000 to the Adult Activities Center of the Harrison County Association for Retarded Children after a request for the funds had been made by Richard Nesosiss, association president.

The Board appointed the following persons to the Citizen's Participation Commission: Charles Donlin, Harry Whitmann, Tom Russell, Mrs. Corine Dedeaux, and Fred Cook Sr. The members were appointed for four-year terms, beginning April 1973. The appointments have been pending since April 1973.

The Board set rental rates for a ball shop at the harbor at two dollars per foot per month.

The Board also passed two ordinances prohibiting dogs and livestock running loose within the corporate boundaries of the city;

—voted to approve a maintenance contract with the Teltronic company to maintain the city's electronic equipment at a cost of $157.60 per month;

—voted to donate $100 to the Pass Christian High School Girls basketball team to finance the team's participation in the Junior Olympics in New Orleans;

—voted to request bids for a new police car;

—voted to fund Ptn. William Markopoulos' attendance at a four-day police seminar at the University of Mississippi;

—voted to advertise for bids for a new dump truck;

—voted to advertise for bids for the sale of two cars and one ambulance no longer used by the city and presently housed at the sewer plant;

—voted to accept the resignations of Charles Arnold, detective, and John LaForce, mechanic.

The Board also voted to accept the low bids made by the Williams Wrecking and Contracting Company for the demolition of three buildings in the city at the following addresses: 119 Market, 224 Davis, and 101 E. Second St.; bids were $1875, $2800, $2200 respectively. Bids were accepted pending presentation of bond and insurance.

The Board refused a request for funds to finance two teams for the Babe Ruth 16-18 year-old league saying that the city did not have sufficient funds.

No relief in sight for Coast gas pains

By staff writers
Dan Barber and Carter Hillyer

After weathering a period of panic buying, gasoline limits and empty tanks during the recent carnival influx, coastal service stations are hopeful that supplies may finally equal demand with close supervision.

Demand for gasoline which skyrocketed on the Mississippi coast during Mardi Gras seems to have tapered off, leaving most station owners optimistic that March allotments will satisfy local demand.

A survey of most independents and the major oil stations from Long Beach to Waveland, Mississippi this week indicates that most were becoming accustomed to the gas pinch and were tightening belts to keep their stations open as long as possible.

There were the inevitable empty tanks at some stations and the handwritten signs covering pumps that advised motorists of "no gas," but the crunch that has hit the independents hardest seems to have temporarily bypassed by the major companies.

While convenience stores pumping "off brands" were either waiting for gas or pumping dry early in the morning, the major stations seemed to be getting by on March allotments by adjusting station hours. The dollar or gallon limit which became familiar to many motorists during February is apparently being abandoned at most stations this month.

"We have had to cut our daily hours of operation by two hours," said the manager of the B&P Marco station in Long Beach. "Last month we had to limit customers to a $2 gas purchase but so far we haven't had to this month."

Meanwhile customers of John

Binegar's Exxon station, Waveland, were being advised of a $3 "minimum" purchase. Binegar, who said that he may be the first station east of New Orleans to adopt this practice, said purpose of the $3 minimum was to prevent "topping out," a practice of some motorists to purchase gas from several stations to avoid half-full tanks where limits are imposed. Binegar said the situation causes long lines at stations while attendant's service cars that need only a small gasoline purchase.

Binegar said he had no maximum dollar limit on purchases now, but had to impose a $3 limit on purchases during Mardi Gras when he ran out of gas three times. He has received a 60,000 gallon allotment for this month, he said, or approximately 83 percent of his March 1972 volume and is trying to stay open until 6 or 7 p.m. each night. Under normal conditions he stay open 24 hours a day, he said.

Binegar's prices which reflect the recent two cent increase approved by the Federal Energy Commission are two to three cents lower than most of the independents. Regular is 55.2 cents per gallon while premium is selling for 58.3 cents per gallon.

One of the major independents, Target Oil Company in Bay St. Louis, was out of gas until this past Saturday when station manager E. G. McMillan said that he had found a new distributor in Mobile, Ala. to supplement a 30,000 gallon allotment he is receiving from Murphy Oil in New Orleans. McMillan said that he had to seek new gas supplies when Murphy Oil cut his allocation 20,000 gallons a month.

The station which primarily attracts customers seeking cut rates for self service, has no limit on purchases.

"Sell it 'til you give out. That's my motto," McMillan said. "I'd just as soon pump gas one week and fish the other three." The station is selling regular gas at 54.9 cents a gallon from self-service pumps and 56.9 cents otherwise. Premium prices are two cents higher.

"The way it looks right now I don't see any problems. Not unless everybody else runs out and they come over here and buy me out all at once," Other dealers of nameless gasoline have not fared as well in finding new suppliers or in getting increased allotments. Mrs. Linda Carver, assistant manager of Majik Market on Central Ave., Waveland, said that the store's gasoline pumps had been dry since Feb. 15.

"We didn't know that we were on any allocation," Mrs. Carver said, "so we were pumping without any limit. If and when we get gas again we will probably have a $4 or $5 limit."

The store was selling around 10,000 gallons of gasoline a week, she said, and had gone through its 23,000 gallon allocation in two weeks.

"We were also supplying some of the local shrimpers," she said, "but I guess we won't be able to do that anymore."

Another major independent in Bay St. Louis has gone to a four day gas week in an effort to stretch allocations through an entire month.

Mrs. Inez Garcia, manager of Premier Oil, said that beginning last Monday the station had begun to do nothing but service and wash cars on

More doctors would solve hospital's problems

In a meeting marked by an atmosphere of amiability and cooperation, Hancock county supervisors met with trustees of Hancock General Hospital Tuesday night to hear an annual audit report of the hospital and discuss solutions to the current doctor shortage.

The physician shortage is directly related to the state of the hospital's financial status said auditor Arnold Moore, in explaining the audit breakdown.

Salaries accounted for 47.11 percent of the total expenses in 1973 in comparison to 51.23 percent in 1972. A constantly fluctuating patient census forces the hospital to operate often at a loss as even when the patient census is low the hospital must still maintain a basic staff.

The total operating expense figure for 1973 was $1,067,094.53 and total revenue came to $1,025,450.36, causing a net loss of $41,644.17.

Had the patient census been higher last year, Moore said, the hospital could have realized a $50,000 profit for the year.

The hospital lost four of its six full time staff physicians in 1973 prior to the September fiscal year end and in that month was forced to close a wing of the institution.

Center takes shape

Workmen took advantage of the good weather this week to continue progress on Our Shopping Center located on Waveland Ave. and Hwy 90 in Waveland. Contractors for the 10-store development are working toward a June opening date. Workmen were busy Tuesday pouring foundations, installing electrical conduits, and erecting the center's outer block wall.

Waveland assigns Park easements

Waveland aldermen Tuesday night followed the lead of Hancock county supervisors and assigned easement rights to the Mississippi State Park Commission and Buccaneer State Park allowing the park access to water and sewer lines of the city of Waveland.

On a motion from newly elected mayor John Longo, the board passed a request by Longo to return a check for $875.15 to Wallace Industrial Constructors of Pascagoula paid for a building permit for work in connection with sewer treatment facilities.

In other action aldermen passed a resolution promising to assist the local Chamber of Commerce beautification program in its efforts to maintain trees and shrubs around the proposed hospital station at Highway 607 and I-10.

Gibson said that working plans for Phase II of the park would be presented March 7 to the state building commission for approval. Preliminary plans, he said, have already been approved.

City attorney Lucien Gex Jr. advised the board of a letter addressed to the Travelers Indemnity Company of New Orleans advising the company that they were liable for damage claims amounting to $280 a day until all work was performed on city contracts for a sewage collection system.

Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., reported a busy day Sunday at the Bay St. Louis shelter located on Third Street.

In other business the board adopted a leash law which subjects pet-owners who allow their dogs to run loose to fines up to $15.

Five bids received for waterproofing City Hall

Bay St. Louis council members took under advisement five bids received for waterproofing of the city hall this Monday.

In other council business members endorsed a resolution authorizing Hancock Emergency Medical Services to investigate the most economically feasible method of establishing ambulance service for the county.

Also on the subject of pets, the board agreed to raise the salary of Ory Bourgeois, animal warden, $10 a week to offset the rising cost of gasoline.

The council also agreed to meet with the city planning and zoning commission March 21 to discuss recommendations from the commission that the city encourage the development of the beachfront at the head of Uman Ave. and that the proposed marina and recreational facilities contemplated for the head of Washington St. be included in the Uman Ave. program.

Commissioner Lucien Kidd reported to the council on tests conducted by Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Commission in four areas of Hancock County and said that the commission had noted that information at this time was incomplete but indicated that Hancock County shared water quality problems similar to those existing in other coastal waters.

Long Beach votes restrictions on local commercial fishing

The Long Beach City Council passed an ordinance Tuesday night regulating commercial fishing and the use of trammel or gill nets in "waters of the Gulf of Mexico abutting the City of Long Beach."

The ordinance stated that commercial fishing or the use of gill or trammel nets by any person or business is unlawful within 15 hundred feet of any wharf, pier, breakwater or beach within the corporate boundaries of the city.

Violations of the ordinance are punishable by a fine of not less than $25 and not more than $300, or by having the trammel or gill net confiscated or by imprisonment.

The Board also authorized the city attorney to research and report by April 16 on the levy of 1 mill ad valorem tax for the Municipal Separate School District for use in the Recreational Program.

Smallwood $5300 for partial payment for construction of a building at the sewerage treatment plant; —appointed Michael I. Rutledge to the Planning and Zoning Board;

—authorized the purchase of a resuscitator for the fire department;

—voted to advertise for bids to be received April 2 for a light fixture for the Babe Ruth Sr. Ball Park;

—voted to reimburse $34 to the Lion's Club for official fees for the recreation department.

DEATHS

MRS. SUSIE TUBERVILLE GRIMSHAW

Mrs. Susie Tuberville Grimshaw died at 8:20 p.m. Wednesday, February 20 at St. Francisville where she had resided for the past 42 years.

Services were held February 22 at Grace Episcopal Church in St. Francisville, conducted by Father James Savoy, with burial in the church cemetery.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Dr. Henry Weston of Logtown and her second husband, James Reginald Grimshaw. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Marion Weston Delcourt, St. Francisville; a sister, Mrs. Mattie Rose Dukeminier, Jackson, Miss.; a nephew, James W. Dukeminier, and a niece, Mrs. Ann Ivy Battaile, Memphis, Tennessee.

Her first husband, Dr. Weston, was a brother of Mrs. Lamar Otis and Mrs. Gladys Chapman, both of Waveland. They drove to St. Francisville with Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Otis on Thursday, returning home after the funeral Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Grimshaw had visited on the Coast many times with their relatives, and she had returned often since his death.

Thursday and would be closed completely on Saturdays and Sunday. The station has had a $5 limit on purchases since Feb. 1.

J. J. Perniciaro, who operates an American Station on Hwy. 90, said that out of an eight cent across the board increase by the company last January, the dealer only realized a one cent profit.

"I have figured with this new schedule I can go to the end of the month," Mrs. Garcia said.

Perniciaro added that his station was receiving only about 16,000 gallons of gasoline for March—a cut of 15,000 gallons from March 1973.

As far as she was concerned, she said, the situation seemed to be getting worse. "There are just too many stations closing up that were open before and too many running short. I just don't see how it is going to ease off."

Perniciaro said that his station had not had a limit so far, but expected he would be forced later to stop selling at around 600 gallons a day.

While reactions to the gas pinch were as varied among station owners and dealers as they were among the motoring public, the general consensus was that before things get better they are probably going to get worse.

In the words of one station owner, "Nobody knows what tomorrow will be like."

Otto Bourgeois, who operates the Main Street Exxon station on Hwy. 90 Bay St. Louis, said that the station's margin of profit had been frozen since January of 1973.

"We've had several price increases the past year," Bourgeois said, "but we have had to absorb increases in the amount of sales tax we pay. Every time the price went up, our margin of profit actually decreased because we were paying more sales tax that we weren't able to pass on to the customer."

Dealers, Bourgeois said, were being given a two cent flat price increase that didn't take into account the extra margin of sales tax that was being charged them by their distributors.

Waveland is lead applicant for 201 study

Despite urging against the action from the county's consulting engineer in the morning, Hancock county supervisors Monday afternoon passed a motion accepting the city of Waveland as lead applicant for a county-wide 201 pollution control study.

George Williamson of deLaurel Engineers told supervisors in a regular session Monday morning that he "had been spinning my wheels in Harrison county" on the 201 study which the engineering firm is attempting to perform there.

Williamson said he would have nothing to report to the Hancock board for at least two more weeks as state pollution control officials still had given the engineers nothing definitive as to funding or what was required in the study.

The matter of Bay St. Louis declaring Waveland as lead applicant for the study brought a protest from Williamson who said that the county as the larger political subdivision should be lead applicant.

Since only one application can be submitted for federal funding of pollution control programs in areas of more than one subdivision, Williamson said, the county should be the lead applicant, not a city. Williamson suggested that the supervisors consider joining with Harrison county for a joint application.

However, in a recessed session Monday afternoon, Ray Eaton, a partner in Waveland's consulting engineering firm of Lewis and Eaton said he was told by state and federal officials in Jackson last week that the "money was definitely available and they strongly suggest that we get started with the study right away."

After considerable further discussion during which Waveland city officials pressed the board for action a motion was passed unanimously to accept Waveland as lead applicant.

Society seeks answers to earth use

Federal, state, university and industrial contractor personnel at NASA's Mississippi Test Facility have banded together to form a unique organization, The Interdisciplinary Seminar Society, representing various disciplines of science and technology, seeking answers to problems facing our nation today in improving the use of our natural resources.

The Society meetings are open to the public, particularly to persons in state and local government, educational institutions and others interested in sharing in the exchange of scientific and technological information.

The Society was formed by the group to become more aware of the scientific investigations underway at MTF; the relationship of one activity to other on-going activities to avoid duplication of effort; to share knowledge gained in each of their respective fields; and, through discussions, seek answers to individual problems.

Dr. W. D. Langley, president of the group, said: "Working together at one location is unique. We have a great opportunity here at MTF, not only for our own research, but to broaden the total understanding of how man can make better use of science and technology. This is why we would like interested members of the public to participate in this most worthwhile program."

Speaker for the last session was Dr. Robert D. Boudreau, chief of the Atmospheric Group of NASA's Earth Resources Laboratory (ERL).

and founder of the Society at MTF. Prior to joining ERL, he was an investigator with the Meteorological Satellite Laboratory (National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) in Washington, DC. He received his doctorate in meteorology from Texas A & M in 1968. He is a member of the American Geophysical Union, American Meteorological Society, Sigma Xi, New York Academy of Sciences, and the Mississippi Academy of Science. His topic was "The Hemispheric Reflectance of a Plane Water Surface for Atmospheric Radiation."

Past topics have included: Remote Sensing (Oceanography, Ecology and Atmospheric) Hydrology (River Forecasting and Estuary Systems); Scientific Literature Indexing; and Science, Technology and Public Communication.

Regular seminar meetings are held on the second or third Wednesday of each month.

College course offered at Bay High

A college credit course, on Methods of Teaching the Emotionally Disturbed, will be offered in Bay St. Louis beginning March 12, 6:30 p.m. under the auspices of the University of Southern Mississippi.

Robert Hesson, special education teacher at Bay Senior High School, is coordinator for the innovative program geared to bring college level special training courses to those unable to attend the USM Gulf Park campus.

An organizational meeting for the above course has been scheduled for tonight, 5:30 p.m. at Bay Senior High, which is where the full academic quarter course will be held every Tuesday night for two and a-half months.

A member of the USM faculty will conduct the course which is open to all interested adults. Hesson advises that this class is of particular value to teachers-aids and those dealing with the emotionally disturbed as well as qualified teachers.

Other similar courses, taught by USM faculty members, are expected to follow this initial course, Hesson said.

Hesson may be contacted at 467-7267 for further information.

time could still be kept for study, O'Neal said, but it would be teacher supervised study, he said.

"I just feel," he said, "that 15 minutes spent by the students at the end of their regular class period where the teacher is still in the classroom to supervise things is better than having a whole hour sometime later in the day."

In other business the board accepted teacher recommendations for Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview Schools. Principals at both schools recommended no staff changes, and board president Horace Davis said he felt this to be a very good reflection of the job done by principals at these two schools.

"I think this is the first time we have had this happen at Gulfview school ever," Davis said.

Watts wins school board post

Wesley L. Watts defeated Maurice Ross Saturday by a 239-62 vote in a special election for trustee representing the added territory district of the Long Beach School Board.

The special election was called Saturday to fill the unexpired term of William G. Fennell, who resigned last September. Watts had been appointed by the city council to fill the vacancy pending the March election.

Only 301 votes were cast at the election held Saturday afternoon at the Long Beach High School. About 2,100 voters were eligible to cast ballots in the election.

Watts is employed as a line foreman by the Mississippi Power Company and he has been a resident of Long Beach for 20 years.

He is a past patron of the Order of the Eastern Star and a past master of Southern Star Lodge 500. He is a Past Rainbow Dad of the Rainbow Assembly and a member of the Long Beach Carnival Association.

Watts is a member of the Central Baptist Church. He is married to the former Nona Lee Bass and resides with his family on Daugherty Road.

Bank president addresses stockholders meeting

Leo W. Seal Jr., president of Hancock Bank, presided over the bank's 75th annual stockholders meeting held in the lobby of the Gulfport bank.

In his report to stockholders, Mr. Seal outlined the growth of the bank and discussed the condition of the Gulf Coast and national economy during the year. He recounted factors that affected banks throughout the country, especially the sharp increase in interest rates.

"In spite of these conditions," he said, "your bank had a good year, experiencing good growth in deposits and earnings, and climaxing it by finalization of the merger with the Bank of Commerce of Poplarville (Miss.)."

Among growth factors he cited were an increase in total resources of $9,500,000; an increase in deposits of more than $8,500,000; and an increase in loans of more than $10,000,000 over the previous year.

Seal pointed out that earnings-per share rose from $5.88 to $6.05, and that $1,250,000 was added to surplus and capital reserves, further increasing the value of bank stock.

Concerning the merger with the Bank of Commerce of Poplarville, he said this was the most significant occurrence during the year.

He said "the Bank of Commerce, with its excellent staff, will operate as a division of Hancock Bank."

Seal also cited expansion at the Pass Road office, Seabee Facility renovations and the addition of two 24-hour teller facilities at the Edgewater and Gulfport offices as positive steps toward improving customer services. He also announced that plans are underway to expand facilities at the Bank of Commerce, with construction to begin immediately.

Two gas price changes possible this March

Motorists can expect two gasoline price adjustments during the month of March, a spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service noted today.

Operators of independent service stations — those not wholly owned and operated by oil companies — will be permitted to make two price changes during March if necessary. Normally, they are permitted just one price adjustment during the month.

Average Refunds

Many Taxpayers in Mississippi have apparently followed the advice of the Internal Revenue Service and have filed their tax returns early this year.

William Daniel, District Director of Internal Revenue for Mississippi, said today that this far almost 250,000 returns have been filed from Mississippi. At this time last year IRS had received slightly more than 200,000 returns.

This year IRS expects that before the April 15 deadline arrives over 600,000 returns from Mississippi will be sent to the Service Center in Chamblee, Georgia.

This year's average refund has been $267.00. Mr. Daniel encouraged individuals who have not filed to quickly do so. Taxpayers with questions about their tax returns can call IRS toll free at 1-800-222-8070. In Jackson the number is 948-4500.

Vo-Tech Center offers courses for adults

With enrollment of over 250 students for the second semester, the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center is currently offering vocational-technical courses to adults and high school students in the Hancock County area.

Starting operations in the fall of 1973, the Hancock County Vocational center is located adjacent to Stennis Field in Hancock County 20 miles north of Bay St. Louis.

Adult classes offered the first semester included two welding courses, two auto mechanics classes, one carpentry course, one electricity class, and one machine shop course. These courses are being taught currently with the addition of an emergency preparatory course, an adult LPN class, and an auto mechanics organized by the Mississippi State Vocational-Technical Center in Jackson. On the first night of registration for this course over 150 adults were present to register.

The center works with local high school students from Bay St. Louis, St. Stanislaus and Hancock North Central during the day and teaches adult education classes at night.

These high school students are bussed to the center each day and receive vocational training that they otherwise would not be able to get," James Sones, center director said.

The Vo-Tech Center is housed in a new $650,000 facility with over $200,000 of modern equipment. There is also to be a new paved parking lot built at the center and an outdoor lighting system for night students. Sones stated, "One of our major problems here is correlating our schedules with those of the local high schools. Our schedule has to accommodate the different high school's starting dates and holidays. Another problem is that everyone does not know what we have to offer here."

"This is just a beginning," states Director Sones, "We are planning to offer many different things."

According to area sources, county citizens have shown much enthusiasm and the center has been widely supported.

The Center is an extension of Pearl River Junior College.

LPN students receive Hospital Auxiliary aid

The Hancock General Hospital Women's Auxiliary presented individual $50 educational grants to five of the students enrolled in the Practical Nursing training program currently in progress at the Pearl River Junior College, Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center.

Recipients of the grants are Beatrice Seal, Verna Morin, Carol Seal, Peggy Sones and Toni McIntyre. The money will be used by each of the students to help pay for books, uniforms and other costs incurred during the course.

The present Practical Nursing course began December 3 and will conclude November 18. Students are in full-time training during this period receiving 1,200 clock hours of clinical training in hospitals and 600 hours of classroom training at the Vo-Tech Center.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, the students receive a diploma and are then eligible to take the state board exam for licensing.

Licensed Practical Nursing is an expanding field attracting men as well as women. The Licensed Practical Nurse assists in caring for medical and surgical patients, convalescents, handicapped people, and others who are physically or mentally ill.

Burglary victim arrested on marijuana charge

Pass Christian police investigated a burglary at the residence of Norman Dorsey, 957 E. Second St., Monday night and wound up arresting Dorsey the following day for possession of marijuana.

Dorsey, 37, notified police that his house had been burglarized between 10 p.m. Sunday and 1:30 a.m. Monday during his absence. Listed as stolen were a polaroid camera, a color television, some men's clothing and two black lights.

Police obtained a search warrant Tuesday and searched Dorsey's residence, allegedly finding a small quantity of marijuana and paraphernalia. Dorsey was arrested Tuesday afternoon and bond was set at $300.

In an unrelated case, police investigated a burglary reported Monday by the Camille Village Housing Authority.

Entry was made through a window of the Housing Authority office and approximately $65 was stolen from the vending machines in the office.

MECO Program Needs Hospitals And Clinics

More than 100 University of Mississippi School of Medicine students want to spend their summer in community hospitals across the state getting local health care experience.

The participants in the program, called MECO (Medical Education Community Orientation), are all first and second year students. "All the students have shown interest in the program," said UMC freshman Susan Buttross, state student coordinator for MECO. "The problem is getting enough hospitals and clinics to take students for 10 weeks during the summer."

MECO is sponsored in Mississippi by the Medical Center chapter of the Student American Medical Association (SAMA), the Mississippi Hospital Association and the Mississippi State Medical Association.

The SAMA-initiated program "takes the student who is in the midst of academic training and puts him at the doctor-patient level," according to SAMA president Alan Orkin.

"The program takes the student out of the classroom atmosphere and introduces him to a new learning experience in community medicine," Orkin continued. "MECO encourages students to stay in Mississippi and go back to practice in the communities, where doctors are most needed."

Students who participate will spend 10 weeks in a community hospital or a clinic of at least two physicians, working under local sponsor-physicians.

"This summer will be the fourth for MECO to operate in the state," Ms. Buttross said. "Students add another health team member to the hospital staff, they see patients with their sponsor physician, and they get out into the community through public health and welfare departments."

Tom Greer, a UMC medical student and national director of MECO, said that a MECO summer is a definite factor in a young doctor's decision to practice in a small town.

Earth Week proclaimed in Pass Christian

Machinist Program Outlined

Job opportunities for a skilled machinist in Mississippi are unlimited. Successful completion of a 1 or 2 year machine shop training program will lead immediately to entry jobs in apprenticeship programs that start at about $3.00 per hour.

The apprenticeship period of several years allows the person to learn and improve his skills while being paid for his work. A skilled machinist usually earns from $5.00 to $6.00 per hour, with more specialized metal workers, like tool and die makers, earning even more.

A machinist cuts and shapes metals to fit precise standards established by engineers and draftsmen. The training at a technical school or junior college teaches the fundamentals of the trade: blueprint reading, use of measurement instruments, and operation of machine tools including lathes, millers, and grinders.

High school graduation is not necessary to be admitted into junior college machinist training programs, but mechanical aptitude and a desire to learn a precision trade are essential. If you would like more information on this well-paying career, contact the Governor's Office of Education and Training at their toll-free number: 1-800-222-7629 (in the Jackson area call: 354-6179).

Long Beach Fire Dept.

Gas crunch leads to burning car drill

Ken Hanley, training instructor for the Long Beach Fire Department, uses a 10-foot torch to light the fuel-soaked vehicle.

Members of the Long Beach Fire Department begin to extinguish the fire using a snow-like foam specially designed to fight gas fires. Over 20 volunteer and regular firemen participated in the drill.

by Carter Hillyer
Long Beach Bureau
Chief

In a unique fire drill, Long Beach firemen poured more than 80 gallons of used motor oil, diesel fuel and regular gasoline on a car, stacked old tires around it and set the whole thing ablaze.

The car was burned as part of a drill in which firemen learned how to use "six percent" foam—a special chemical mixture designed to fight gas fires, said Ken Hanley, training instructor for the fire department.

"The firemen needed practice with the foam since we were just recently supplied with it. We got the foam because of the increased danger of gas fires—an indirect result of the energy crisis," Hanley said.

"Many people are carrying gas cans in their cars for fear of running out. This is extremely dangerous and will become more hazardous as the weather gets hotter. People store gas in the trunks of their cars. The heat builds up in the trunks, causing the gas to expand and burst its container. Gasoline vapors build up in the trunk and a spark from a bad muffler or anything could set off an explosion," Hanley said.

"This fire drill will prepare us for this kind of emergency."

"The fire department is making a training film from this drill to aid in instructing firemen on the correct methods of fighting a fire like this," Hanley added.

About 20 volunteer and regular firemen gathered in an empty lot on the corner of Alexander and Kohler avenues and covered the car inside and out with fuel and oil and old tires. Only seconds after Hanley started the fire (using a ten-foot torch), the car was completely enveloped in flames. Only minutes later, the firemen, using the special foam, had extinguished the blaze.

The car, the oil, the gas and the old tires were donated to the department by local businesses and individual citizens.

Only seconds after Hanley ignited the fire, the car was completely ablaze, filling the sky with billows of black smoke.

Using the special foam, the firemen were able to extinguish the fire only minutes after it was started.

Special Olympics Set

Blair High School will be the May 11 site for the Mississippi Special Olympics State Track and Field meet, according to Dr. Basil Gaar, state director of the Olympics and assistant professor of special education at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The event will be directed by Gus Bowering, Hattiesburg, assisted by a task force of volunteers. "It is anticipated that there will be about 1,400 participants, an increase of 25 per cent over the meet last year," Dr. Gaar said.

The Olympics are for mentally retarded children, youth and adults of Mississippi and the Hattiesburg meet is a climax for those who will be involved in training programs and local competitions—some 5,000 participants and half that number of volunteer workers.

Mississippi Special Olympics is an affiliate of Special Olympics, Inc., a national program sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation, Washington, D. C. The state office is at the University of Southern Mississippi.

"The strength of the Special Olympics," according to Dr. Gaar, "is the support and cooperation of individuals, schools, universities and colleges, agencies, and civic organizations assisting with funds and time in carrying out the dynamic program for the retarded of Mississippi."

Locally, those individuals and groups interested in area Special Olympics programs may contact Dr. Charles Keith, Jackson County Junior College, Gautier, Miss., or co-chairman—Miss Linda Lehman, Jackson County Special Education Center, Pascagoula, Miss.

Mayor's Proclamation

The importance of good vision in our lives can never be over-emphasized. Whether at work or play, most of our activities depend on vision. Without good vision, we would be unable to fully enjoy the beauty of the world around us and in some activities, such as driving, our very lives and the lives of the people around us depend on our ability to see.

Many people across the country and in our own community have lost some of their ability to see properly. Some of these vision problems have been detected and corrective action taken while other vision problems remain undetected in many people.

To remind people to take care of their vision and to emphasize the importance of good vision, the first week in March is annually proclaimed Save Your Vision Week by the President of the United States. To further emphasize the importance of this timely message to our community, I would like to join with the President in proclaiming March 3-9, 1974 Save Your Vision Week in Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Therefore, I, Warren J. Carver, Mayor of the City of Bay St. Louis, strongly urge each member of the community, the news media and public service organizations to recognize the significance of this week and participate in the activities designed to help all members of our community to enjoy life to its fullest through good vision.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Seal of the City of Bay St. Louis.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Last week on tv we saw a program so good that it made up for most of the horrible commercials that spoil most of our television fare. It was "Mass," a stupendous modern musical by Leonard Bernstein, who wrote "West Side Story."

"Mass," done in the stylized idiom of today, is a descriptive allegory of the Catholic service, with an accompanying story of the mental turmoil of a priest who can't quite believe that what he is doing is going to solve the problems of the world and who eventually renounces the symbolism of the Mass in order to serve his fellow-man in a more practical way.

The production of the piece is magnificent. It was directed with great feeling and accurate planning of the chorus, choral and choir portions which must have taken hundreds of hours of rehearsal to perfect. As presented by WYES-TV (sans commercials!) it was impressively staged by soloists of the Yale dramatic club and a chorus of several hundred Yale students. The music, impeccably played by the Yale symphony orchestra, had the effect of a great choral symphony, emphasizing the mental conflict of the priest and the human failings of his parishioners.

We doubt however that the clergy will join with us in our admiration for this unusual play. We certainly did not find it in the slightest way sacrilegious, and there was not an off-color moment in it. But it was a bit irreverent of the priestly robes and paraphernalia used in the Mass as if decrying the importance placed on them by the clergy. In one gripping scene, the priest, completely disillusioned by what he is offering the people by bells, censers, robes and candles in the face of their stark practical needs sweeps off his holy garments as if renouncing the impractical symbolism of the service.

Although there is much in "Mass" which is perplexing and parts of it will remind you of the Israelites making whoopee around the Golden Calf, the play as a whole will delight you with its brilliant music and its superb staging. Be sure to see it when it is repeated on WYES-TV, as it is sure to be, and if you don't understand all of it, ask your clergyman!

The President of the United States has designated March 29 as Vietnam Veterans Day. It will be the first anniversary of the day when the last American combat troops were withdrawn from Vietnam and the American prisoners of war were freed. All citizens are urged to observe this very special day in some way which expresses gratitude to those veterans for their services and sacrifices. Flying your flag would be a nice gesture.

Veterans Health Care Expansion Act of 1973 provided some changes in the nursing care programs administered by the Veterans Administration.

Prior to the passage of the new law, care in nursing home units at V. A. Hospitals was available only to eligible veterans who had completed their hospital stay and were ready to be moved to a nursing care facility. There was no provision for direct admission to one of the VA nursing care units.

Public Law 93-82 authorized certain eligible veterans to be admitted directly to a VA nursing care unit. The VA Dept. of Medicine and Surgery has now established the priorities for direct admission to a nursing care unit. These admission priorities are as follows:

Priority Group I includes veteran patients receiving hospital or domiciliary care in VA facilities whose transfer is required for service-connected disabilities.

Priority Group II includes veteran patients not hospitalized or domiciled by VA who require nursing home care for service connected or adjunct disabilities.

Priority Group III includes veterans patients receiving hospital or domiciliary care in VA facilities whose transfer is required for non-service connected disabilities.

Priority Group IV includes veteran patients not hospitalized or domiciled by VA who require nursing home care for non-service connected disabilities.

All 65-year-old veterans needing hospitalization for treatment of non-service connected disabilities can be admitted to a VA hospital without having to sign the so-called "Paupers Oath" as was formerly required.

The 10-10D Form requesting Medical Benefits for dependents or survivors of 100 percent service connected disabled veterans is to be mailed to Veterans Administration Center, 1500 E. Woodrow Wilson Ave., Jackson, Miss. 39216. (CHAMPVA)

Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Manager

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will be the sponsoring organization for the beautification of Highway 607, from Interstate 10 to Highway 90, through the Resource, Conservation and Development Project Committee. This Committee is under the auspices of the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District.

The main purpose of this Committee is to do things for the enhancement of natural resources in our area. This project will greatly improve the Western entrance into Hancock County from Interstate 10.

The Mississippi State Highway Department's landscape architect will draw up plans for the types and size of plants and trees to be placed on this stretch of highway and our Chamber will be responsible for the implementation of these plans.

This project that the Chamber is sponsoring will be completed within a year and we would see a change for the better on Highway 607.

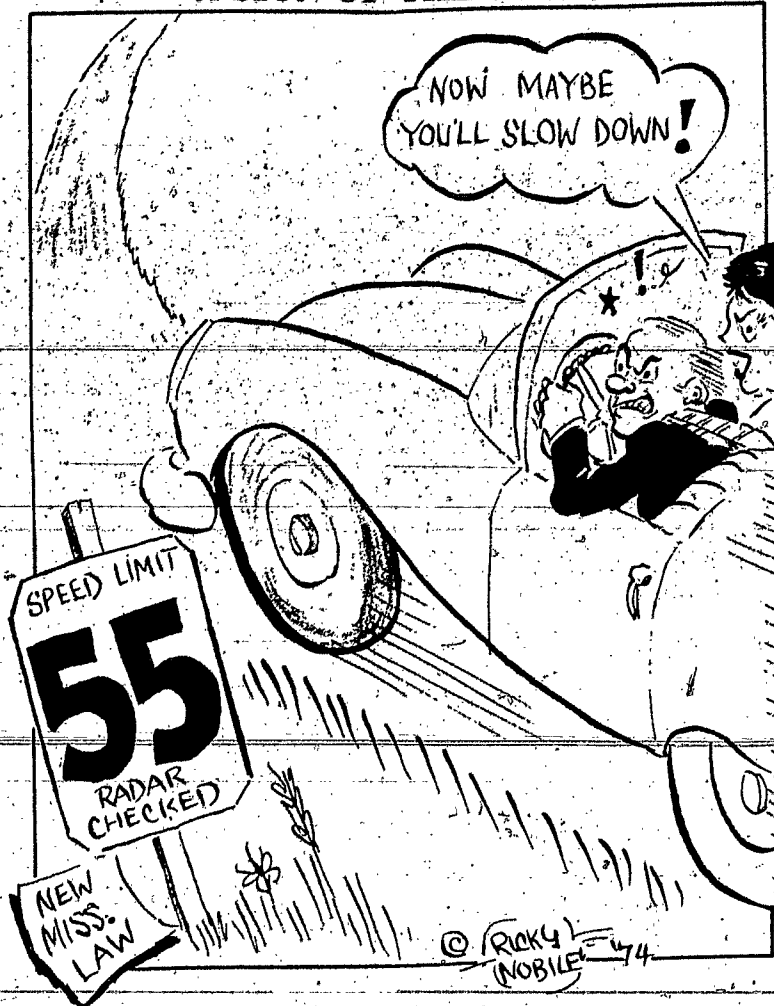

The Chamber will have a regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Nicholas Haas, president, received board approval of his 1974 appointments to the Chamber board. These appointments are: E. J. Marengo, Coastal Insurance Agency; Brother Pierre St. Pierre, St. Stanislaus; James Rester, Farm Bureau; and William Tate, III - Bay St. Louis.

We welcome these men to the Board and look forward to working with them this year.

We would like to inform those who responded to the commuter inquiry forms that work is being done on reinstatement of commuter rail service to the New Orleans area, but temporary bus service will be instituted shortly through the efforts of MCTA. However, we still need more commuters to respond and we urge any who have not done so to please contact the Chamber office and these forms will be forwarded to you.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES

Our Readers Write

Gentlemen:

It would be a service to the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., if you would kindly print the following letter: Thank You.

To Whom It May Concern: This letter is in answer to the people who have called Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., relative to a black, white and grey horse that was ridden in one of the groups in the Waveland parade on February 17. The callers insisted the horse appeared to be ill and requested we locate the owner and offer our assistance.

Through error, Mr. Vic Green of Bayside Park was identified as owner of the animal. Mr. Green invited the Society inspectors out to see the horse he had ridden in that parade. It in no way answered the description of the animal in the complaints. The horse belonging to Mr. Green that was shown to the society committee appeared to be in good health and not wanting for care.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., thanks the concerned people who have called us and asked assistance from us for this animal. If you would kindly call back with more specific information, we would be happy to investigate further.

Sincerely,

Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc.,

HOMEWORK IS A CHILD'S JOB RESPONSIBILITY

A pile of books or a homework assignment a child brings home from school is just like a briefcase of papers you may bring home from the office.

You accept the responsibility of your job when you bring work home. A child who brings work home is accepting the responsibility of his job - school.

Homework assignments serve a purpose. They offer a youngster the challenge of working on his own.

When home assignments are given, he should decide for himself the time and quality of effort he will invest into school.

If a child realizes his parents care more about his homework than he does or they nag and bribe him to do it, he may use this as a way to get back at them.

If he knows you'll do his homework when he doesn't, a child will exploit this fact. This won't teach him responsibility for later tasks and jobs he may have to do on his own.

Let the child decide when and where he will do his homework. Trust he will accept the challenge.

REPORT to the PEOPLE

ON ACTIVITIES OF INTEREST IN 1974

MISSISSIPPI STATE SENATE

FROM: SENATOR MARTIN SMITH

THERE WAS A GREAT DEAL OF ACTIVITY IN BOTH HOUSES of the Mississippi Legislature as the second week of committee meetings and hearings on bills originating in the other house was concluded. Major pieces of legislation received favorable reports by the committees of the two houses, and now await action on the House and Senate floor calendars.

ON MONDAY, THE SENATE JUDICIARY "A" COMMITTEE held a public hearing on the controversial question of 16th section land reform. The Senate committee now has before it a House-passed bill which calls for competitive bids on 16th section lands. Under terms of the bill, the present lessee may retain his lease by meeting the highest bid. Several hundred people attended the hearing and heard the arguments of both opponents and supporters of the bill.

OTHER SENATE HEARINGS THIS WEEK dealt with pari-mutuel wagering and authorization for construction of a racetrack on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

THE SENATE APPROVED THE GRANTING OF UNIVERSITY STATUS to the five state colleges on Tuesday. The Senate had received two House-passed bills, one granting university status to Delta State College and the other dealing with the remaining four colleges, Jackson State, MSCW, Alcorn A & M, and Mississippi Valley State College. A floor amendment combined all the colleges under one bill which the Senate then passed but held for reconsideration. Attending Tuesday's session were delegations of students from the colleges affected by the proposed legislation. The bill must now go back to the House of Representatives for approval of the Senate changes.

IN ANOTHER EFFORT TO GET OPEN-MEETING LEGISLATION PASSED this session, a Senate concurrent resolution was introduced on Wednesday. The resolution, which is not subject to the normal legislative deadline schedule, would simply be a statement of "legislative intent" that meetings of public bodies, including legislative committees, be open to the public.

A HOUSE BILL ESTABLISHING A SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE at Mississippi State University was brought before the Senate for special consideration on Friday. The bill which authorizes construction of the new facility was passed with overwhelming support from the Senate. A bill providing the funds for the Veterinary Medicine School is expected to be presented shortly.

IN OTHER FLOOR ACTION THE SENATE PASSED A HOUSE BILL creating a uniform method of jury selection and service. The House bill, which had been amended in the Senate Judiciary "A" committee, provides for expanded citizen participation in the responsibilities of jury service.

HOUSE FLOOR ACTION SAW CONCURRENCE IN SENATE AMENDMENTS to a bill designed to ease the energy shortage by cutting highway speed limits to 55 miles per hour, as required by a recent act of Congress. The House-originated bill was sent to the Governor for his signature and was signed into law on February 28. States must comply with the new federal requirements by March 3 or forfeit their federal highway funds.

THE HOUSE DID NOT ACCEPT SENATE AMENDMENTS to another of its bills and requested that a joint conference committee be set up to work on a compromise measure. The bill in question, House Bill No. 411, establishes a Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

BOTH HOUSES WILL CONTINUE HEAVY COMMITTEE ACTIVITY during the beginning of the week of March 3. Each house has until Tuesday, March 5, to report bills and amendments originating in the other house out of committee for floor action. After this deadline has passed, the House and Senate will spend long hours in session as they begin consideration of the numerous bills on their respective calendars.

AMONG THE MAJOR PIECES OF LEGISLATION ON THE SENATE CALENDAR at this point are bills requiring the approval of county boards of education on all 16th section land transactions and permitting 16th section lands to be reserved as public parks and recreation areas.

Other bills dealing with county government would authorize boards of supervisors to employ a county administrator, require central purchasing by county governments and set original penalties for the offer or acceptance of money or contracts for public purchases and construction.

Also on the Senate calendar are bills which would create a Consumer Protection Division in the Attorney General's office, authorize a State Medical Examiner, and require revising state credit laws.

ON THE HOUSE CALENDAR ARE SUCH MEASURES as a bill providing a $50 tax reimbursement fund for all elderly citizens, reinstating capital punishment for specific crimes, and setting emergency medical service standards for the operation of ambulances in the state.

IN ADDITION TO GENERAL BILL DEADLINES the Legislature is now approaching the first of its appropriation and revenue bill cut-offs. Thursday, March 7, is the deadline for each house to have taken original floor action on its own financial bills. The Senate Appropriations and Finance committees have between them approximately 350 bills which will be subject to the March 7 deadline.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

WATER WEED CONTROL

Controlling weeds in ponds and lakes can improve fishing, boating and swimming. But getting rid of weeds in ponds, ditches, lakes and streams does present a problem.

In fishing waters, a heavy infestation of weeds cannot be rapidly killed because the treatment may also kill the fish. This can happen even when the herbicide used is relatively non-toxic to fish. A rapid decomposition of organic residues of the weeds results in loss of oxygen and the fish suffocate.

The use of chemicals is becoming more and more important in controlling water weeds. To use chemicals effectively, you must know the kinds of weeds, the severity of the infestation, the size and depth of the body of water and the herbicides that are designed to control the particular weeds that you have.

Among the chemicals recommended for water weed control are copper sulfate, diquat, endothall, dichlobenil, Silvex, 2,4-D and dalapon. Each has its place in aquatic weed control. Be sure to read the label before applying herbicide to a body of water.

LIQUID MIXED FERTILIZER

Liquid mixed fertilizers have been used for years and have been equal to solid fertilizer when applied at the same rate and in the same manner. Remember, that the phosphates in high analysis granular mixed fertilizers are also 90 to 100 percent water soluble.

No matter what type of fertilizer you use, unless you follow soil test recommendations, you might spend a lot of money for fertilizer and not get enough to produce satisfactory crop yields.

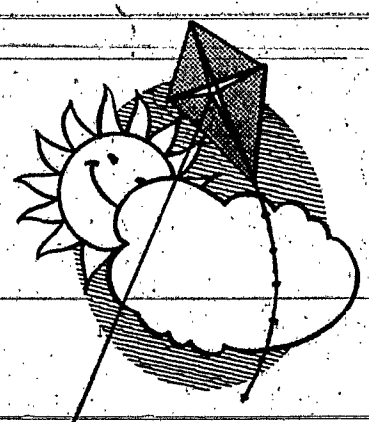

BYGONE DAYS

5 Years Ago... Beach Road progress is finally becoming a reality as curbing has been placed along the road south of the town limits of Waveland, near Jackson Ridge.

10 Years Ago... Plans for the restoration and remodeling of the old O. J. Key home on deMontuzin Avenue as the first seven units of an eventual 40-unit luxury apartment development were announced this week by L. L. Kergosien and Son, realtors.

25 Years Ago... The American Legion, Clement R. Bontemps Post 139, is bringing a new and possibly profitable idea in starting an Annual Egg Derby. It will be along the lines of a sweepstake or horse race, but instead of horses the entries will be eggs. Each egg will have a number and name as well as a sponsor.

50 Years Ago... The Hancock County Bank announced this week that for the year of 1924 their resources have exceeded two million dollars.

Fuel Allocation Program

ASCS does not have any authority for the allocation of fuels under the current program. This authority is vested in the Federal Energy Office and the Mississippi Fuel and Energy Management Commission. This information comes from Bertha F. Hickman, County Executive Director for the Stone-Harrison County.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office. The county offices have been requested to monitor the fuel situation and make regular reports to the State ASCS Office in Jackson, Mississippi, which in turn, transmits this information to Washington. The Federal Energy Office has requested the ASCS office to be a source of information about the petroleum allocation program and a source of supply for forms. Forms FEO-17 and FEO-20 are available in the ASCS office, Mrs. Hickman reported.

We in ASCS are interested in helping farmers to get all the fuel they need. We are particularly concerned at this time about the small farmer who does not have a regular fuel supplier. This type of operator is encouraged to obtain a supplier and advise the supplier of his anticipated needs. The supplier may be a bulk distributor, service station, or a country store. Furthermore, the operator who has been driving his tractor to the local service station or store for gas should get himself some type storage, a 55-gallon drum, at least. This will enable him to continue work in the event his supplier encounters temporary shortages.

Super pipe

It takes a lot of culvert to fill a bayou overpass and make a safe bridge, such as this one dwarfing workmen at the Central Ave. site in Shoreline Park. County crews accomplished the task in eight hours, supervisor James Travira said.

Lions Club starts drive to help blind

Lions Club members of Long Beach are participating in the Mississippi Lions annual White Cane Days promotion under sponsorship of the Mississippi Lions Sight Foundation, Inc.

The promotion began March 3 and will last until March 9. White Cane Days promotion is a non-profit venture, started in 1968 by the Lions Clubs of Mississippi to raise voluntary funds needed to provide more effective programs in sight conservation and aid to the blind and handicapped.

"Mississippi Lions help the blind year round," said Fred Feldmann of Clarksdale, current Sight Foundation president, "but we ask the public to help but once a year and that is during our White Cane Days effort."

"Because of our faith in Mississippi and its people and our concern for the blind and handicapped, in particular, we have just recently opened the Mississippi Lions Building in Jackson which houses the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped," said Feldmann.

"Through the facilities of this building over 12,000 blind and handicapped Mississippians are being assisted.

Monies raised during this year's White Cane Days will be used to help retire the debt on the building."

Help make it possible for someone else to share the gift of sight with you. Give generously and support your local Lions Club during the annual White Cane Days scheduled for March 3-9.

Beware of Texas company Comm. Gandy warns

State Insurance Commissioner Evelyn Gandy has again cautioned Mississippians not to purchase insurance from any company not licensed to do business in this state. Such companies have not complied with state insurance laws and do not come under regulation or control of the Mississippi Insurance Department.

Miss Gandy said, "The people of Mississippi are now being deluged with solicitations by Bankers Commercial Life Insurance Company, of Dallas, Texas, which is making an extensive solicitation of business through many of our state newspapers."

"In its advertisements, the company claims that it meets the full legal reserves as required by law. The fact is, this company is not licensed in Mississippi and it has not met any of the legal requirements of the Mississippi insurance laws."

"Based upon information in our office, this company is licensed only in its home state of Texas and it does not meet the qualifications presently required for being licensed in Mississippi. I strongly urge Mississippians to reject and completely disregard these solicitations for insurance which are being made by companies which are not licensed by your State Insurance Department."

Anyone wanting information on whether an insurance company is properly licensed with the state should contact: The Mississippi Insurance Department, P. O. Box 79, Jackson, Mississippi 39205. Telephone number 354-7711.

College Scholarships Available Thru 4-H

MISSISSIPPI STATE - There are many college scholarships available to young people today.

4-H offers many college scholarship opportunities. There are over forty 4-H projects and most offer scholarships on the national level.

"Do you really want to attend college?" asked Ollie D. McWhirter, Extension 4-H youth development specialist. "This is the important question. College requires a great deal of time. It's not a place to play."

Winning a national 4-H scholarship takes hard work, but the reward is well worth the time and effort. Youth interested in trying for a scholarship in a 4-H project should contact their Extension 4-H agent. "After selecting a project, the youth should complete the 4-H record," the 4-H specialist said. "If you want a scholarship, begin your 4-H record today."

Children pedaling to Bicycle Rodeo

Children aged seven to 12 years old will get a chance to practice and learn the rules of good bicycle safety this weekend under the supervision of members of the Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary.

The auxiliary will sponsor a Bicycle Safety Rodeo Saturday March 9 beginning at 10 a.m. for all youngsters interested in learning proper safety rules and maintenance points for good bicycle safety and pleasure. The rodeo will be held on the Our Lady of the Gulf school grounds.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver Monday proclaimed March 9-15 as Bicycle Safety Week in Bay St. Louis.

BONZER RADAR: 'TIME AND FUEL SAVER'

You are listening to Capt. Jimmy Carden, owner/skipper of the shrimp trawler "Southern Belle," fishing out of Panama City, Florida. Capt. Carden explains: "There's one place where I fish that I have to go around some spars and masts. With my Bonzer radar, I can do this quickly—whether it's night or day, clear or foggy. Without the Bonzer I'd have to use my spotlight to do the best I could—and that's slow, takes a lot of time and fuel. So my Bonzer is a real time and fuel saver." Capt. Carden continues, "Our cold spells are followed by warm-ups spells that are accompanied by fog. The shrimp show up during these warm-ups, but so does the fog—and that's when my Bonzer shows its stuff. I especially like the anti-rain clutter feature of the Bonzer. You can get heavy rain or fog settling on such things as a wooden sailboat, and the Bonzer picks it right up; you couldn't do as well in clear weather. And I like how easy it is to operate the Bonzer—you just switch it on, select the range, and there you are. Just two knobs to operate." Furthermore, Capt. Carden, to whom short-range radar operations are particularly important, appreciates the extremely accurate short-range capacity of the Bonzer. All this, not to mention the price—at $1,495, it's considerably less than competing radar sets. And Southeastern Electronics of Biloxi & Pascagoula, who sell and install the Bonzer Radar is quick to point out another advantage: its simplicity of installation. It takes just four bolts to mount the head; you position the cable and then mount the receiver with two bolts. A typical installation takes only 45 minutes.

Forestry News

The next few weeks will prove to be the true test of Mississippi's battle against wildfires. Recent rain helped to hold down the potential; however, the wind and sunshine have dried the litter sufficiently in a few hours to make it burn.

With more than half of Mississippi's land in forests, most of it producing valuable and necessary pulpwood and timber; the trees constitute one of the greatest natural resources and also one of the most profitable crops.

Protection from fire is a must. It is also the duty of everyone to cooperate.

Last year was a record low for number of fires, 3,525. This number could be reduced even more through the efforts of responsible citizens.

Enforcing a state law which declares it a felony to set fire to any land not his own, a person can be tried and sent to the state penitentiary. Cooperation of citizens have led to such convictions. The Mississippi Forestry Association offers a $500 reward to persons giving information leading to such convictions. In some counties, banks and civic groups have an additional reward. Persons giving information about illegal wildfires could rid the community of a menace and be several hundred dollars richer.

It is the duty of each individual to give information to the proper authorities when they know that such illegal activities are happening. The arsonist who sets a fire has no way of knowing what will be destroyed in the path of his fire. Many homes, livestock, and personal property have been destroyed because of another malicious act. We must strike now before the arsonist strikes the match that destroys your home.

Anyone having information should call 928-7612. All information will be followed up with a complete investigation. County Forester V. W. Lovelless said that if we could rid Stone County of the malicious woods burner our forests would be even more of an economic asset to the state and our community. "A concerned public can stop the arsonist," he said.

Wheat needs to be fertilized now

MISSISSIPPI STATE - It's time to fertilize and control weeds in wheat that will be harvested for grain.

Dr. Charles Baskin, Extension agronomist, said if wheat is being grazed, livestock should be removed and the wheat toppedressed with 80 to 100 pounds of actual nitrogen (250 to 300 pounds of ammonium nitrate or 150 to 200 pounds of urea) per acre. "Short strawed varieties such as Arthur, Arthur 71 or Coker 68-15 will respond to as much as 100 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre.

Declining Milk Production

A trend has developed in Mississippi and the nation that is pushing milk into the middle of the current in a sweep toward the top of the scarcity list for consumers. Unless some highly complicated economic factors undergo change soon, Mississippi milk supplies simply will not be adequate to go around.

Hugh M. Arant, of Ruleville, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, points out that dairy farmers in Mississippi are dropping out of the dairy industry for economic reasons at an alarming rate.

"In the past three years," Arant said, "22 percent of our state's dairymen have quit; nearly one-third of our dairy cows have either been slaughtered for beef, sold or retired; while milk production has slumped five percent during the past 12 months."

A critical combination of economic factors has produced the problem. Feed, for example, has risen in cost sharply since the nationwide wet harvest season of 1972. Since then cotton seed meal has increased in price by 34 percent; soybean meal, 31 percent; and dairy ration, 46 percent. Farm fuels have soared since May, 1973, with gasoline up 165 percent; diesel, up nearly 200 percent; and LP gas, up over 300 percent. The fertilizer supply, a major input for agricultural production, is an estimated 12 percent below anticipated 1974 needs.

All of this adds up to the fact that it is increasingly more difficult for a dairyman to have a good day and pass it on. They have had to absorb these additional costs instead of passing them on as most business enterprises do. On the other side of the ledger, since 1963 the average price received by Mississippi dairymen has advanced only from $5.27 per hundred pounds to $6.94 in 1972.

Consequently, with high investments in their farms, milking parlors, and herds, dairymen in increasing numbers are becoming unwilling to continue to take the risks, pay higher interest on loans, and conform to rigorous daily milking schedules in the face of greatly diminished profits. Many dairy animals already have been slaughtered while beef prices are high.

Not a pretty picture? No, especially not when milk is one of the most essential of food items. But, so far consumers have not faced empty dairy cases at their local retail stores. Regional redistribution of milk in 1973 staved off the pinch of short milk supply in Mississippi during 1973. Midwest milk was used to supplement Mississippi's reduced supply then, but this supply cannot be depended on in the future as other states, particularly in the Southeast, are experiencing similar problems.

Due to the perishable nature of milk, it is difficult to import milk and maintain quality, taste, and shelf life. Imported milk may be about one week old before it reaches the Mississippi consumer.

The Farm Bureau leader said that Mississippi's remaining dairymen are very concerned about the problem and are seeking answers that hopefully will reverse the trend of declining milk production.

What Would You Like To Know About Your City?

Members of the Bay St. Louis City Council have expressed a desire for local citizens to become better informed of the affairs of their community and the workings of their city government.

Questions concerning the tax structure or assessments, city operating costs, areas of income and disbursement of funds and any other of a reasonable nature will be answered by council members in a new series starting this week in the Echo.

In cooperation with the city council, the Echo will publish each week a questionnaire which can be clipped out and mailed or brought in person to City Hall. Questions submitted will be answered the following week and as much information as possible on the subject will be supplied by whichever council member appropriate. While the council would prefer that the correspondent identify himself, names are not necessary and any question of a reasonable nature will be answered.

Readers are reminded that questionnaires must be submitted to City Hall, not the Echo.

QUESTION:

Since there is a city ordinance to the effect that whenever a taxpayer allows his property to become unsightly, the city authorities may cause the property to be cleaned and the charge assessed against the property, could not the property owner when the city fails to keep public areas in reasonable repair make the necessary repair himself and deduct the cost thereof from his tax bill?

The reader outlines specifically why she asks the question. A deep mud filled rut has been cut into the shoulder of the roadway in front of a mail box near her home by the mail delivery truck. The rut is unsightly and detracts from the appearance of the street. It is also dangerous and could result in injury to someone.

ANSWER:

In answer to the question as to the work being done by the property owner and the cost thereof deducted from the tax bill, I must say that this cannot be done.

In answer to her statement that after due notice the city failed to keep the area in reasonable repair, she is right in making that complaint. Quite some time ago she asked that this matter be attended to. A work order was sent to the street department but nothing was done until this letter was received from our lady citizen.

I regret, of course this lack of attention to the work order by the street department but all of the ruts made by mail delivery trucks along that particular street have now been filled.

Very sincerely,
WARREN CARVER, Mayor

Bicentennial Meeting Set

Mississippi is among the first states in the Union to call a statewide meeting to plan for its participation in the Nation's 200th anniversary. On April 6 at the Heidelberg Hotel in Jackson, an estimated 650 state and community leaders will gather to learn how the Bicentennial Celebration can become a "Celebration of Achievement." The theme of the conference is "A Past to Honor—A Future to Mold."

Sponsoring the conference is the Mississippi American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. Under the leadership of Governor William L. Waller, Chairman, Ex-Officio, and Secretary of State Heber Ladner, Chairman, the Commission has already undertaken a number of projects and programs of statewide importance, including the publication of "A History of Mississippi."

As part of the conference, nationally-known entertainer Burl Ives will present a benefit concert at municipal auditorium. Proceeds from the concert will go to the "Johnny Horizon '76" program which has as its goal: "Let's Clean Up America For Our 200th Birthday." The immortal Carl Sandburg once described Burl Ives as "the mightiest ballad singer of any century."

Chairman Heber Ladner stated: "This Conference will insure that all our people become aware of what is being done to insure that Mississippi's Bicentennial program is the finest in the Nation." He added: "This conference offers the State Commission the opportunity to learn the needs and wishes of community leaders—the 'grass roots' strength of our state." "The Commission's goal," Ladner concluded, "is for every community in our state to send at least two representatives to this conference."

Summarizing the importance of the conference, Governor William L. Waller stated: "We are counting on response from the local level to make Mississippi's participation in the National Bicentennial highly successful. At this conference, we want to hear from our people—teachers, businessmen, housewives, young people, elected officials—and learn what they think the Bicentennial should be so that we can shape the observance to reflect our shared faith in our country and its future." With the needs of community leaders in mind, the Commission has secured as the keynote speaker, John Fisher of Toronto, Canada.

Mr. Fisher, popularly known as "Mr. Canada," was the Commissioner of the Canadian Centennial Celebration. Ladner observed that "the Canadian Centennial has been praised as the most successful historic celebration of the twentieth century."

Fisher will share with conference participants the Canadian experience. The format of the conference is the participatory workshop. The various workshops will be chaired by specialists in the field of tourism, history, program planning and municipal government. Commission Director Perry Snyder noted:

"With the help of these experts, Mississippians will be able to return to their respective communities and plan programs and projects which will live long after the Bicentennial Year '1976.' Snyder continued, "our goal is for the Bicentennial to be the vehicle for better communities throughout our state and our land."

In addition to the workshops, the luncheon, and the Burl Ives concert, the official United States Navy Band from Washington, D. C. will perform on the afternoon of April 6 at the municipal auditorium. Conference participants and the general public are invited to attend the concert. Under the direction of Lt. Comm. Ned Muffley, Conductor, the U. S. Navy Band is one of the finest military bands in the world. Every effort has been made to keep the cost of the conference minimal. The registration fee which includes the luncheon and the Burl Ives concert is $6.50. For those unable to attend the concert, the registration fee is $4.50. The price of tickets for the Burl Ives Concert are $3.00 adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Checks should be made payable to the Mississippi Bicentennial Conference. The address is: Bicentennial Commission, P. O. Box 574, Jackson, MS. 39205.

MS Safety Council News

The 22 percent decrease in deaths at the end of January was encouraging. However, at publication time, this figure had dropped to a 4 percent, and this is a definite cause for concern.

Apparently safety will receive very little help from the Legislature this year. Already the Habitual Offender proposal has been killed by the House Highways and Highway Financing Committee. It remains alive in the Senate, but even if it passes there it will face probable extinction by the House, since it would be assigned to the same committee that killed it earlier.

In addition, the effort to lower the presumptive limit of intoxication from 15 percent to 10 percent is being received with a few exceptions, rather coldly.

Since we will probably receive no legislative assistance, the only solution for an improved fatality record is intensive enforcement of the existing traffic laws. The Highway Patrol continues to show improvement and the municipal police departments are increasing their enforcement efforts in the traffic area. This helps.

Uniformed deputies in well-marked cars patrolling county roads would reduce traffic fatalities in these areas. The deputies would also be able to respond to requests for assistance in a matter of minutes instead of hours. Good law enforcement costs money, but it's worth it. People will pay the cost if the Boards will recognize the need and levy the taxes necessary to meet this need.

BLANKET PROPOSAL

Though most blanket statements have little value, here's one that can save you work and money and keep you extra warm during the cold months ahead:

Choose a pair of wool blankets and make them into draperies for your living room. By contrasting them with your wallpaper, paint or carpeting, you'll achieve a fresh, dramatic effect.

The mood can be delicately feminine—a white or pink "see-through" thermal blanket—or ruggedly masculine, using a strong solid color blanket—or one with a tartan or American Indian pattern.

Four new members,

Mesdames Louise Ladner, Beverly Ladner, June Neaise and Donnie Carroll were welcomed by the group.

The meeting closed with the thought for the month, "God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can and the wisdom to know the difference."

White Elephant sale planned

Mrs. Maurice George, president, conducted the business session and Mrs. H. W. Duke reported on the recent council meeting.

Congratulations to the winners of the trophies and awards for the contributions they made to the color and fun which made the 41st annual Pass Christian Carnival Parade such a success. First place for an organization float, the Alumni Cup, was awarded to Sigma Phi for their entry, "Westward Ho."

Second place, the Hancock Bank Trophy, went to St. Paul's P. T. O. for the "I Dream of Jeanie" float.

First place in the business category went to the Hancock Bank for their "Wonderful World of Disney" float. They received the Captain Dan Taylor Trophy and were also awarded the best costumes on a float award, which gave them their own Hancock Bank trophy!

Second place was awarded to the teachers of St. Paul School for their "Flying Nun" entry. They received the Herbert H. Hanson Memorial Award.

The Belle Taylor Award for the best teenage masker went, most fittingly, to her grandson, Danny Taylor, the very agile masker on stilts.

The best child masker, chosen for the Larry Reid Award, went to the Steube sisters from Gulfport.

Again, congratulations to all of you. You gave a lot of enjoyment to thousands of parade goers.

Jerry and Patsy Andresen hosted an informal buffet after the Mardi Gras parade last Sunday at their Second street home. Attending were volunteer firemen and their wives among other friends.

R. V. Abbey entertained with his usual carnival parade party at his East Beach home. After winning and dining his guests viewed the parade from his front yard.

Anyone interested in acquiring a loveable tomat, please call Isabelle Charnock. She has one for adoption.

St. Patrick's Day will arrive a week early for members of the Pass Christian Yacht Club this year. The annual dinner dance in honor of the patron saint of the Irish will be held at the PCYC on March 9. Music will be provided by the Joe Schultz combo with the promise of an Irish jig or two.

Hosts and hostesses for the occasion will be: Rory and Googlie Rafferty, Clay and Loretta Rick, Jake and Alberta Byrne, and Byron and Shirley Stinson.

In case you are wondering who the bearded lady was on the Concerned Citizens of Delisle float, Diane Peranich admits to being that hirsute lady.

We hear from Lorraine Bowes, Bobbi Ann Castell, and Kim Bergerud, students at the University of the South, that they have been romping in the snow in Sevanee, Tenn. They said it certainly didn't seem like Mardi Gras up there.

Home for the weekend from the University of Southern Mississippi was Michelle Benvenuti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benvenuti.

The William Kalif Memorial Award for the best out-of-town float was awarded to the "Belles and Buoys of Gulfport." Second place, the Bleibenberg Award was received by the "Nifty Nine."

Social Security programs are not the same

The new supplemental security income program for people 65 or over, or blind, or disabled is run by the Social Security Administration—but it's not the same as social security," according to Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

"Supplemental security income payments are based on financial need," Wofford said. "Social security benefits are based on work and earnings."

The amount of a monthly supplemental security income payment depends on whether a person has other income, according to Wofford.

"Social security retirement, disability, and survivors benefits are paid to eligible workers and their families regardless of income other than earnings," he said. "The amount of a monthly social security payment is based on the worker's average earnings over a period of years."

Social security is financed by contributions from workers, employers, and the self-employed. Supplemental security income payments are financed by general revenues—not by social security contributions.

"About three out of five people getting supplemental security income checks also get small checks," Wofford said.

A person 65 or over, or blind, or disabled who lives alone and has limited resources and no other income, generally gets a Federal supplemental security income payment of $140 a month, and a couple get $210. "People with other income may get reduced supplemental security income payments," Wofford said.

In The Pass

BY LORRAINE BOWES
452-2548

Congratulations to the winners of the trophies and awards for the contributions they made to the color and fun which made the 41st annual Pass Christian Carnival Parade such a success. First place for an organization float, the Alumni Cup, was awarded to Sigma Phi for their entry, "Westward Ho." Second place, the Hancock Bank Trophy, went to St. Paul's P. T. O. for the "I Dream of Jeanie" float.

First place in the business category went to the Hancock Bank for their "Wonderful World of Disney" float. They received the Captain Dan Taylor Trophy and were also awarded the best costumes on a float award, which gave them their own Hancock Bank trophy! Second place was awarded to the teachers of St. Paul School for their "Flying Nun" entry. They received the Herbert H. Hanson Memorial Award.

In the family division, first place, which was the Frank Wittmann Trophy, was given to the Stewart-Peralta families for their float, entitled, "Wizard of Oz." Second place was awarded to the Jones, Taylor and Matkin families. They received the Katie C. Hanson trophy. The William Kalif Memorial Award for the best out-of-town float was awarded to the Belles and Buys of Gulfport. Second place, the Bielenberg Award was received by the "Nifty Nine."

The Sister Mary Boremo Award for a special achievement was given to the Farragut-Necaise families for their "Gunsmoke" float. George Anderson and Tom Karl, dressed as hats got the William F. Adams Award for best adult maskers, for their very original idea.

The Belle Taylor Award for the best teenage masker went, most fittingly, to her grandson, Danny Taylor, the very agile masker on stilts.

The best child masker, chosen for the Larry Reid Award, went to the Steube sisters from Gulfport. Again, congratulations to all of you. You gave a lot of enjoyment to thousands of parade goers.

Benefit set for Heart Fund Drive

Mrs. A. M. Thomas, chairman of the Hancock County Heart Fund drive, announced a benefit social will be held March 14 starting at 7:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Main Street, with Mrs. Donald Carr and Mrs. George diBenedetto as chairmen.

A door to door ticket sale, Mrs. Thomas stated, will be conducted by the chairmen and volunteer workers in the Bay St. Louis area and in Waveland by Mrs. Dix Ashman and her workers, Victor Frankiewicz is chairman for the M.T.F. area. Tickets are $1.

Mrs. Walter Gex III, chairman for the Heart Fund candy sucker sale, has started her campaign. Mrs. Thomas noted, and candy at 10 cents per piece or by the box can be purchased at the area schools or by calling Mrs. Gex at 452-9648.

The heart fund quota for Hancock County, Mrs. Thomas added, is $2300.00.

JC Wives now Jaycettes

Bay St. Louis Jaycees were honored by Jaycee wives with an Italian dinner and social Saturday at the Jaycee Hall.

Mrs. Larry Burrage, president of the wives group, presented the clubs' calendar of events for the remainder of the year. She also announced that application for charter with the Mississippi Jaycettes has been made in a further effort to promote Jayceism in the community. The wives will now be known as the Bay Jaycettes, adopting the name thousands of Mississippi Jaycee wives use.

Enjoying the evening were Messrs. and Meses. Burrage, James Calhoun, Sam Cuevas, Jay Lagasse, Charles Parker, Jerry Seuzeneau and Claude Switzer.

Co-chairing the social were Mrs. Burrage and Mrs. Parker.

The next event to be hosted by the Jaycettes will be a Luau June 15.

In case you are wondering who the bearded lady was on the Concerned Citizens of Delisle float, Diane Peranich admits to being that hirsute lady.

We hear from Lorraine Bowes, Bobbi Ann Castelin, and Kim Bergerud, students at the University of the South, that they have been romping in the snow in Sewanee, Tenn. They said it certainly didn't seem like Mardi Gras up there.

Home for the weekend from the University of Southern Mississippi was Michelle Benvenuti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benvenuti.

Talk about brotherly love. It took Captain Tommy Latino 41 hours of plane hopping from Guam to get home for his sister's wedding.

Contest winners

Social Security programs are not the same

The new supplemental security income program for people 65 or over, or blind, or disabled is run by the Social Security Administration. "But it's not the same as social security," according to Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

"Supplemental security income payments are based on financial need," Wofford said. "Social security benefits are based on work and earnings." The amount of a monthly supplemental security income payment depends on whether a person has other income, according to Wofford.

"Social security retirement, disability, and survivors benefits are paid to eligible workers and their families regardless of income other than earnings," he said. "The amount of a monthly social security payment is based on the worker's average earnings over a period of years."

Social security is financed by contributions from workers, employers, and the self-employed. Supplemental security income payments are financed by general revenues—not by social security contributions.

"About three out of five people getting supplemental security income checks also get small checks," Wofford said.

A person 65 or over, or blind, or disabled who lives alone and has limited resources and no other income, generally gets a Federal supplemental security income payment of $140 a month, and a couple get $210. "People with other income may get reduced supplemental security income payments," Wofford said.

'73 was a good year for Pearl River Jr. College

1973 was a very good year. At least it was for Pearl River Junior College.

Increased enrollment, nominal fees, improved instruction and the rapid pace of construction, were all factors in making the year 1973 a very good period in the continued development of Pearl River Junior College.

In spite of national trends, and local concern, the enrollment at Pearl River marked another increase for the 1973-74 school term. PRC registered 1,617 students in August of '73, in comparison to the 1,377 a year earlier.

Overall enrollment of the Mississippi Junior Colleges were also on the upswing. In 1971-72, the total enrollment was 60,869; in 1972-73 it was 63,458; and according to the State Department of Education it will be even larger when all returns are in for the present school term.

Pearl River's increase was aided by the opening of the Hancock Vo-Tech Center, and the overall trend toward vocational-technical training of which PRC is well established.

According to The National Chronical, Society has, after reassessing their relative value of a college education, seemingly faced the fact that a college degree is no longer a ready assurance of a job. It is now believed that a vocational-technical education is the best route in earning a salable skill.

Al Brooks, vo-tech coordinator, made it clear that PRC was certainly ready to meet the demand. "We have the most modern facilities, now in three locations, along with new programs, qualified instructors, and equipment to fill the need of our district."

Money to attend college is not a real problem for junior college students.

With the energy crisis and the rising cost of food and other necessities upon us, the public is facing the fact that a junior college education is a wise choice.

Commuting students at PRC will spend $150 as a matriculation fee, $105 on meals and $45 on books. This amounts to a grand total for an entire year, of $300. If the student prefers to live on campus—in an air-conditioned dorm—the total is a very reasonable $600 per year. This is $140 cheaper than the state JUCO average and incredibly below the $2500 or more a student will usually spend attending a university.

This economical education can easily be explained by understanding the procedures used in funding the Mississippi Junior Colleges as a whole.

President M. White explained that support for Junior Colleges comes from four main sources. State supports equal 49 percent, county 21 percent, federal 14 percent, and student fees make up 16 percent.

President White said, "We must keep in mind that student fees represent only 16 percent of the total cost of education on the junior college level. This means the student will pay only $160 on each $1,000 spent for the first two years he is attending college."

PRC, in keeping with the demands of its district, added several new programs of instruction during the 1973 year. Vocational courses for high school students in Hancock County were added in addition to seven adult education courses offered at the new center. In Hattiesburg 12 adult education classes were formed in addition to the already existing classes at the center. Auto mechanics were also added at the MDTA center at the Hattiesburg facility.

On the main campus in Poplarville, an ROTC program was added. Plans have also been made to offer diesel mechanics along with a greater selection of evening programs in academic as well as the vo-tech areas.

Highlights and points of interest of his trip included Japan, Australia, Hong Kong, Thailand, Manila, Singapore and Hawaii. Mr. Demarest was anxious to return to Diamondhead to relax after his long exciting trip. The annual Garden Tour Spring Pilgrimage will be held on March 20 for the Bay-Waveland and Diamondhead areas. Reservations at the club may be made now for the buffet for those wishing to lunch at Diamondhead. Dinner guests at the club on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Crouchet of Lacombe, La. who enjoy this area on weekends. The Club was filled to capacity Sunday with motorists from far and near. The golf course and tennis courts have been used to full advantage since the spring weather has set in. We had early swimmers out this Sunday also.

The Rudy Valentinos were in their condo over the weekend enjoying the facilities.

We welcome Mr. William L. Weekly, new assistant Country Club manager. Mr. Weekly comes to us from the Pinehurst Country Club. A native of Florida, he has spent most of his life in the north; however, he says he is happy to be back in the real south and especially to be at Diamondhead. He is most anxious to meet all of you, so stop by and introduce yourself.

BEFORE: Blistered and curled shingles on this home (inset) are a sure sign of age. It's a prime candidate for reroofing. AFTER: A new roof of asphalt shingles gives it a clean, uncluttered appearance, which adds to the value of a home.

Economic Uncertainty Keeps Home Remodelers Active

Uncertainty over the state of the nation's economy coupled with shortages linked to the energy crisis have many homeowners running through their tool boxes rather than shopping around for new housing.

New housing starts in 1974 are expected to sag as low as 1.6 million from the record 2.38 million in 1973 and 2.05 million last year, the Wall Street Journal reports.

Turned off by high interest rates and the scarcity of mortgage money, millions of homeowners are opting for remodeling or modernization of their present homes.

One popular and vital remodeling project involves reroofing. Millions of new houses have been built in the nearly three decades since the end of World War II. Since the life expectancy of an average roof with standard shingles is about 15 years, many of the roofs of those homes are in need of a facelift.

In 1973 alone, according to the Bureau of Building Marketing Research, more than 2.7 million homeowners had new roofs put on at a cost of over $1.3 billion. The Bureau reports that 33 percent of the reroofing projects were done by do-it-yourselfers, 58 percent by professional contractors and about 9 percent by do-it-yourselfers aided by professionals.

These statistics indicate the desirability of having a major job like reroofing handled by an expert. While a handyman can save money by making small repairs himself, the application of roofing requires the know-how of a qualified roofer. Unless you are highly skilled, the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association warns, "attempting to do the work yourself may result in an inferior and perhaps costly application job, and, more seriously, in possible injury."

What are the symptoms of a roof suffering from old age? Look for cracked, blistered, buckled or broken shingles. Check the downspouts after a heavy rain for signs of unusually excessive growth. Look for signs of leaks. But don't climb up on the roof for an on-site inspection. It's dangerous and could damage the roof. Examine it from the ground using binoculars.

Before going ahead with reroofing, call in a professional roofer to conduct an on-the-roof inspection.

While he's there, ask him for an estimate on what the reroofing job will cost. It will provide you with a basic price for some comparison shopping. Generally, it's a good idea to get several estimates, making sure the contractors are bidding on the same-quality materials and workmanship.

Asphalt shingles are the most popular roofing material and are used on more than 80 percent of U.S. homes. They can be applied over most existing roofs without the necessity of tearing off the old roofing. Since the labor cost of application is about the same for different grades of shingles, consider top-quality asphalt shingles that are designed to last up to 25 years. The higher initial cost can be amortized over the long life of the roofing. Premium asphalt shingles add to the appearance and value of a home.

REQUEST FOR BIDS ON SHELL PLANTING IN MISSISSIPPI

Notice is hereby given that on April 1, at 6:00 p.m., the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission will receive sealed bids on the furnishing and planting of approximately 27,000 cubic yards of clam shells to be used as oyster cultch in the St. Joe, Bayou Cadeau, and Bayou de l'Est areas. The "bid guarantee" shall consist of a firm commitment in the form of a certified check accompanying each bid as assurance that the bidder will, upon acceptance of his bid, execute such contractual documents as may be required within the time specified.

(b) A performance bond on the part of contractors for 100 percent of the contract price will be required to insure fulfillment of all the contractor's obligations.

This Commission reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Utah Skiing Offers Color, Variety

Interested in combining six days of great downhill skiing with an evening of the best choral music in America? You can—in Utah.

Best known for its Great Salt Lake and religious origins, Utah boasts some of the most challenging and convenient Alpine skiing. Only a short ride from Salt Lake City and the majestic Mormon Tabernacle line first-rate ski resorts like Park City, Brighton, and Alta, the mother of ski resorts. Or choose from Park West, Snowbird and Solitude.

Seven-day "package" tours now available offer the vacationer the opportunity to ski any or all of these areas in addition to a free ticket to the world-famous Mormon Tabernacle Choir. These tours promise a week's worth of moments and memories that you'll want to relive in big color snapshots.

Whether you're planning to ski Utah or Vermont, Colorado or New Hampshire, pack a small, easy-to-use camera that's convenient to carry on the slopes. One that will allow you to concentrate on the sights and snow. The Kodak pocket Instamatic 10 camera is nicknamed the "Hip Pocket" because it's as small as a king-size pack of cigarettes and slips into pocket or pouch.

Let your snapshots chronicle your vacation—resort by resort. Picture your friends as they first step off the bus to collect their skis and head for the lifts. Remember to get as close as your camera will allow to pick up all the interesting detail. Take a snapshot at the bottom of the chairlift, looking up the steep mountain side. Then, at the top, picture the snowy valley below and the brightly-clad skiers descending in peaceful swoops.

Remember to hold your camera steady as you squeeze the shutter. For action shots, try to position yourself so the skier is coming in your direction. This angle helps to minimize the effects of motion.

Before you depart, take a final picture of the areas you have skied and the friends you have made. It may be a long, hot summer before you can return to ski the cold, crisp mountains, so preserve these moments for your photo album.

Farmers must state fuel needs says ASCS executive director

"The essential thing a farmer must do to help assure himself of adequate fuel for agricultural production is tell his distributor how much he needs," said Madely R. Williams, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"Unless a local distributor or dealer knows what his farm customers require, that distributor cannot take the necessary steps to get enough fuel for them," Mrs. Williams said.

Informing the distributor becomes even more important, if a farmer intends to increase his acreage considerably, or if he wants to expand dairy, poultry, or other farm operations. Local dealers will need this information to request additional fuel from their suppliers.

"Agricultural producers who are all to receive priority allocations will be required to certify to an ongoing fuel conservation program on their operations. USDA, in cooperation with the Federal Energy Office and the Environmental Protection Agency, has developed a conservation leaflet. This leaflet, scheduled to be available in early March, includes an energy management certification

Use winter grazing wisely, farmers told

The lack of sunshine or good light conditions along with extreme heavy rainfall during recent weeks, has caused many fields of winter grazing to grow poorly. On these fields if forage is grazed shorter than 2 to 4 inches height, the crop can be damaged and regrowth will be very slow according to John W. Smith, Hancock County agent.

There is always a temptation to overgraze at this time of the year because cattle usually need the feed very badly. Grazing to the ground often reduces the stand and if few green leaves are left to allow photosynthesis to take place, regrowth will be slow. If your winter pasture is running short, there are several management practices you can use that will stretch the available grass.

Controlled or limited grazing of about three hours or allowing one good filling each day will give good results. Limited grazing reduces trampling and manure contamination compared to full-time grazing. Also, more than one group of cattle can be grazed on a field. One filling of well fertilized grass will usually maintain brood cows with young calves except during very cold, wet weather. Calves should be allowed to creep graze full time.

It is best not to feed supplement in which urea supplies a large part of the protein source to cattle grazing highly nitrated winter pasture as the danger of nitrate poisoning may be increased with weather conditions that often occur during this month. All cattle should have access to some dry roughage such as hay even if they are grazing full time.

Many farmers are stretching their winter pasture for brood cows by grazing for three hours every other day and feeding stored feed on the days no grazing is allowed. This program can reduce the protein supplement needed considerably and possibly supply all the protein needed if grazing is good and hay fed on non-grazing days is of reasonable quality.

It is advisable to feed a good mineral mixture to all cattle. Where cows are grazing winter pasture, this mixture should be fortified with sufficient magnesium to provide the equivalent 1.5 to 2.0 oz. of magnesium oxide per day. This supplemental magnesium may be good insurance against Grass Tetany as winter grasses are poor accumulators of magnesium under certain weather conditions even if the soil is amply fortified.

Winter grazing is expensive but properly utilized may help to keep wintering cost reasonable.

OUR MOTTO IS

By L. S. (Doc) Elliott

Things have changed considerably since last week as far as fishing goes. Pearl River, our main source of bass and perch fishing, has been on the receding side and its tributaries at the head have cleared enough for good fly fishing and casting. Some good reports have been received that several good catches were made over the weekend and up to now. It will still be some time until the river itself will be back to normal. The water is clearing day by day. Pearl River from the 1-10 bridge down to its mouth furnishes some excellent fresh water fishing when conditions are right. When Mulatto Bayou, the canal at the Port and Harbor, Bayou Coward and Cross Bayou are clear there is no better fishing anywhere. Most of these places are ideal for salt water fishing for red fish and speckles later on during the summer months. Most of these streams are rather large and deep. Speckle trout come in from the Bay areas such as Little Grassy, Big Grassy and Half Moon. Red fish are caught regularly most anywhere in this area.

Speaking of red fish and flounders the Smokey shrimp bait is a lulu for catching them. Work them on the bottom for best results. Of course dead shrimp is always good, when available.

The next social affair on the calendar is St. Patrick's Day Parade to be held March 16, in Waveland. St. Patrick's Ball will precede the parade on March 9th at the National Guard Armory at Bay St. Louis. Plan to attend and have a good time. You don't have to be an Irishman to participate in both affairs.

For all you fishermen a First Aid Kit is a must for your tackle box. Imagine how nice it is to have a bandage, a piece of gauze or tape, some kind of ointment when an accident occurs. A hook in the hand or elsewhere is painful and needs attention. Be prepared for any emergency, take over until a doctor can be secured.

Wop Glover was over from the big city during the week. Must have been checking up on the fishing situation. Wop is an ardent fisherman. Does smeyer. I was misinformed mostly fly fishing. To keep you posted Wop, things are looking better all the time.

Nickey Rauxet one of our best fresh water fishermen went after them over the weekend. He promised to give us some dope on what he caught and where.

M. Tinedman who resides at Bayou Oaks enjoys most all sports especially fishing and crabbing. You will be pretty busy, partner, things are getting better all the time regarding these sports.

An interesting and fruitful supper-meeting of the Bay-Waveland Gun and Rod Club was held Feb. 28 at the American Legion Home. A good attendance was present. Election of officers was held with Frank Ladner named president of the club; Rowdy Bilbo, vice-president; and three elected to the executive committee - John Rutherford, Wilmer Seymour and Harry Roman.

Pat Toomey, local game warden was the principal speaker. New future activities of the club were discussed and worked out. Retiring president was Clarence Ladner.

Your membership to the club is solicited. Join with a bunch of real sportsmen.

Was a pleasure talking to Terrell Necaise. Terrell fishes, hunts, spears flounders and catches soft crabs. Looking for a record year on soft crabs starting soon. Hope it will be better than the past two years. Will be going after them ourselves. More on soft crabs later.

"Bay Bass Busters", a local chapter of "Bass Anglers Sportsman Society" has been organized on the Coast. The officers are: Danny Howard, president; Billy Roberts, vice-president and Percy Folks, sec. treas. New members are welcome and can call Danny for information.

Danny Howard is band director at East. Jr. High School at Gulfport, Miss. He hunts and fishes.

Mrs. Mary Rogash says she does the fishing for the family. She loves to fish and knows how and where to catch them.

The "Sportsman of the week" last week is named Gil Lensmyer - and not Sem smeyer. I was misinformed.

You can have a fishing trip for speckle trout by going to SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Leo Ladner is another of our local fishermen who, like most of us, likes different sports. He fishes, hunts and catches soft crabs and flounders. Before long night sports will be in order.

Chauvin, La. They get big and are plentiful said Mr. and Mrs. Geo. O. Overly who operate air conditioned cabins, have a restaurant and most everything for the fisherman. The name of the camp is "Sportsman's Paradise".

J. Burton Angelle, Director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, said that the Louisiana trapping season closed, as scheduled, on February 28.

Angelle emphasized that there will be strict enforcement of the state regulations regarding the Louisiana trapping season and the closing date of that season, and violators will be dealt with according to law.

Slow but sure - Pearl River is down to normal. The water is still on the shady side but clearing fast. Some heads of bayous running into the Pearl are clear and fishable. Bass and perch were caught at different spots over the weekend.

The bass were caught mostly by casting with a Keel or Repala lure and perch with a black gnat and spinner. Both bass and perch should start hitting surface bugs from now on providing the water is clear.

Both Jourdan River and Bayou LaCroix are real dirty. Could not find good water anywhere over the weekend even in Rotten Bayou. April should usher in some good fresh water fishing. The tides should start falling in the afternoons this weekend.

Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 33 will conduct a safe boating class March 19, 7 p.m. at St. Stanislaus School. The class, which will be held in Room 225, will emphasize methods of saving gas for power boats as well as plotting a course with wind deviations in mind and safe boating.

Demand still exceeds supply

Farmers will get more fertilizers in 1974, although they may not obtain all they would like to have, according to Madelyn Williams, acting executive director of the Pearl River - Hancock county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). The availability of nitrogen and phosphates is expected to increase by eight percent. Potash, mostly from Canadian mines, is plentiful, but prices will run about 20 percent higher than last spring. Any shortages in farm areas would most likely be due to transportation tie-ups, she commented.

Accordingly, the availability of nitrogen and phosphorus fertilizers will continue to be under intensive demand and price pressures and farmers may pay out $4 billion for fertilizer in 1974, a 40 percent cost increase over last year.

"Economists at USDA's Economic Research Service attribute the increase in fertilizers to three sources," she said. Additional supplies will come from a number of companies that agreed to make 1-1/2 million additional tons of five products scheduled for export available to U. S. farmers. The firms also agreed to run their plants at top capacity and to expand capacity if possible.

Golf event a success

Beautiful weather favored the POKER HAND Golfing Event of the Diamondhead Ladies' Golf Assn. Feb. 28 on the Diamondhead course.

Duffie Pettifils took top honors in Flight A with Mary Hopper runner-up.

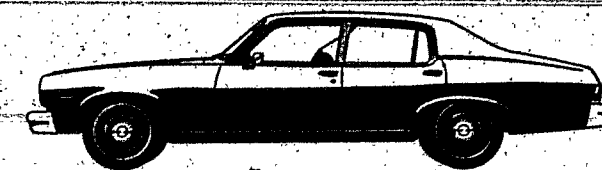

Marion Gooden played the best hand in the B. Flight followed by Mary Crovotto.

Prizes were awarded to winners during luncheon which followed the successful tourney.
